Join us on the 30th of June at Champagne Charlies, beneath the arches of Charing Cross, for a unique opportunity to participate in an intriguing pub quiz! We will be asking our guests to answer questions relating to Swiss and British culture, cuisine, music and arts. During the evening we will provide a selection of finger food, requesting our guests to distinguish between Swiss and British products. Will you be able to tell the difference between a Swiss and a British cheese? Will you spot the difference between Zweifel and Walkers crisps?

About Champagne Charlies

Tucked away beneath the arches of Charing Cross, Champagne Charlies is ideally located for wining, dining and entertaining. The wood panelling, exposed brick, intimate alcoves and candlelit tables make for a cosy yet rustic ambiance, whilst the friendly and attentive team ensure exceptional service for all. Their heritage as part of Davy's wine merchants guarantees an extensive cellar, alongside the best in craft beers, premium spirits and soft drinks. Port is always decanted and Davy's Old Wallop real ale is served in pewter tankards or half gallon copper jugs. Menus are created using fresh, seasonal produce, celebrating classic British fare with something for everyone

Champagne Charlies is easily reached from Embankment or Charing Cross tube station. The restaurant is located beneath the Arches of Charing Cross Station. From the Strand, go down Villiers St beside Charing Cross Station and turn right under the station into the Arches. Champagne Charlies is on the left just past the escalators. From the Embankment, head up Villiers St halfway towards the Strand and turn left into the Arches.

During the evening guests will also have the opportunity to taste delicious wine selected directly from Davy's cellar. Whether you come alone or in a team, please join us – there will be prizes to win! But above all, who will be able to claim the title as the best Britswiss in London?
